

Illinois Department of Public Health (IDPH) Web Portal: Guidance for Becoming a Portal Registration Authority (PRA)

What is the IDPH Web Portal?

The Web Portal is a central location that houses IDPH applications such as the Extensively Drug-Resistant Organism (XDRO) registry and Illinois' National Electronic Disease Surveillance System (I-NEDSS), and serves as a SharePoint site with external public health partners. Partners must register for a Web Portal account to access the site and its applications.

What is a PRA?

Public health partner facilities (e.g., nursing homes, hospitals, laboratories, health departments) that need access to the Web Portal must designate an employee to administer Web Portal accounts for his/her facility. This employee, called a PRA, is responsible for approving access to the Web Portal for staff at his/her facility. For example, anytime an employee at the facility requests access to the XDRO registry, IDPH Security will contact the facility's PRA for authorization. The PRA must also contact IDPH Security when an employee is no longer working for the facility so that the employee's Web Portal account can be removed.

How many PRAs should a facility have?

Only one PRA is required. However, some facilities have high staff turnover and may consider having two PRAs (a primary and a secondary). Health care networks with multiple facilities may also consider having an employee at the corporate office designated as a PRA for all facilities within the network.

How do I become a PRA?

- a. Go to <http://portalhome.dph.illinois.gov/>.
